

We're back! After just under a week at the stunning and superb Fairmont Miramar Hotel in sunny Santa Monica the ParkLogic team is back home in Australia and refired with our recent accomplishments!

The 31st of January to the 3rd of February saw the DomainFest conference feature many prestigious speakers, a thriving exhibition and plenty of opportunities for business as well as an exiting social scene. Around 500 domineers participated in the event and without them the enjoyable affair could not have been possible.

ParkLogic proudly sponsored the conference and sent our sharp cohort with Laci Nagy (operations manager) and Tim Gilmour (client communications) eagerly demonstrating the ParkLogic platform as well as meeting with any and all. This success was complimented as founder and chief Michael Gilmour established new business relationships as well as meeting with existing close partners.

Although exhausted from the journey the team is ecstatic with the result of the show and are anticipating meeting with our new and old friends in the not too distant future.
